formatsREDWOOD CITY, Calif. -- Amazon is launching a new way to rent movies and TV
shows, offering a one-day rental of new releases from participating
Amazon Video On

Demand (VOD) providers for $1.99. The move marks a first for Amazon, which began as an online bookstore and has since exploded into a major online retailer that offers everything from books to toys and videos to kitchenware. Amazon's new rental program is launching on May 10 in the United States and on May 11 in the United Kingdom, Amazon said Thursday. "With an all-in-one solution, Prime members can rent, borrow, buy or gift a wide variety of titles to their TVs and computers with just a few clicks," Amazon said in a statement. "Offered through a new convenience in our Prime Video app, we're giving members the option to rent a movie or TV show in just one day for $1.99." Amazon's new
